

Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention is a non-volatile memory embedded logic circuit and method of fabrication having a 5 low voltage logic gate oxide layer that has essentially the same thickness as the tunnel oxide layer of the non-volatile memory cell. Consequently, both said oxide layers can be formed in a single step, thereby reducing the number of processing steps needs to form the overall 10 device.